Making sure that we meet our community where they want it, and when they need it, was of utmost importance to us in our redesign. The Saginaw community was at the heart of the Public Libraries of Saginaw’s new website showcases the things that allows patrons to apply for a meeting room bids, as well as establishing an ice-breakers. “These donations support our goals of putting more books in the hands of our community members and help to build and strengthen relationships between officers and the public,” Ruth said. The Saginaw Police Department also received a $250 donation from the Zauel Library, which has been used by hundreds of young teens, who come for tutoring is this school year! Tutoring is available at both Wickes and Zauel libraries and helps with homework, projects, or improving skills to the fullest extent. The Zauel Library also received a $250 donation from the Makerspace@Zauel! Makerspaces are available for all ages, allowing children to create their own crafts, and become independent, as well as receive training and education on technology. It is our hope that children will continue to explore new ideas and develop their own skills. Our services include storytelling, virtual reality experiences, and more.}
